OVERALLS PRICE REMAINS SAME

Mayor's Investigation Shows Rumors of Profiteering Without Foundation

An investigation which has been carried on under the direction of Mayor Frank Francis, following the complaint of persons that prices of overalls had taken a decided rise since the inauguration of the "overall" movement, here has shown the complaints to be without foundation, according to an announcement made yesterday by Mayor Francis. The investigation has shown he declared, that prices have maintained a steady level in spite of the abnormal demand since the opening of the "overall" move.

Mayor Francis said that the probe resulted in the obtaining of information from the wholesalers of overalls that a rise in price is contemplated in the near future, owing to the increased cost of raw material.

Due to the scarcity of overalls and the enormous demand at present, Mayor Francis said that the high cost of clothing could be more successfully combated through the wearing of old and even patched clothing. He declared that the city employees have adopted this move instead of purchasing overalls and working a hardship on workmen who absolutely need the denims in their employment.

He said: "Under the present methods, the child usually is taught to avoid work, making it distasteful rather than a pleasure as it should be. Unless properly handled this may become a menace to the strength of future generations."

GOOD RESULTS CLEANUP DRIVE

Despite Stormy Weather Rubbish in First District Is Disposed of

Saturday marked the closing of the first week of Ogden's cleanup and paintup campaign and although the stormy weather interfered with operations during the middle of the week, wonderful results have been obtained in making the city clean and bright, according to J. M. Elliott, city sanitary inspector, who is directing the cleanup drive. Twelve motor trucks and wagons, which are being used in hauling away accumulations, are still in the second district and will move to the third and fourth districts during the coming week.

Dr. Elliott declared that the people of Ogden deserve high praise for their co-operation in the drive; that if similar enthusiasm is maintained during the coming days of the campaign, better results will be obtained than ever before.

The work of hauling away rubbish in the first district has been entirely completed as far as the cleanup trucks are concerned and persons who placed large piles of accumulations on the curbs which were not gathered up by the trucks, are urged to provide means of disposal. The cleanup trucks are only hauling away small piles of rubbish, Dr. Elliott said, and persons who have put out large amounts must make arrangements to have the stuff disposed of themselves.

Two Baptist Churches Oversubscribe Quotas

The first church in Utah to make their contribution to the Interchurch World Movement is the Baptist church of Eureka. This church, according to reports, has about two members and thus their quota was based upon this membership. F. J. Lucas, who is state director for the Baptist church reports that after a visit to Eureka this church went over the top with their quota. It is, perhaps, the smallest church in the state and is looked upon generally as one of the mission churches of the great Baptist denomination. They have raised three times their quota and will perhaps make this amount four times their regular denominational quota.

The second church in the state to reach the goal in this financial campaign, which starts next Sunday, April 25th, is the Mead Baptist church located in southeastern Utah some thirty-five miles from the railroad. Neither of these churches have a regular pastor, but each has splendidly organized Sunday schools and one of them has a mission worker. Mr. Lucas returned yesterday from Mead where $3400 was pledged to the Interchurch World movement and the quota of this church was only $2,000. Mr. Lucas states that the membership of the church are still pressing the campaign and expect to make it $5,800 before they quit.

Another of the Baptist churches located in Mason, Nevada, has reported that they have gone over the top in their quota. One wealthy lady having taken the whole quota for that small church.
